

Dear Julie,

I just wanted to thank you and your team at WebRevelation for the excellent work on SEMCO's new website. Working with WebRevelation and Julie Short has been a great experience and partnership in the creation of our new website. The site is greatly improved over our old website in almost every way possible. We achieved increased functionality and appearance that made our team proud to tell everyone to go visit our website again.

What I really wanted to thank you for was your personal service and attention to details. Working with you made the creation and implementation process effective. Your ability and willingness to work around our last minute needs really saved us any issues on our side and made the overall product that much better.

I would personally be more than happy to recommend you and your company to anyone who is working on a new or update to a current website. Your abilities go way beyond the norm and it shows in the products you produce.

I look forward to working with you as we move to add additional functionality to the website.

Kindest of regards and huge thanks,

Steve Ulm
